Webinar On Research Ethics and Plagiarism : Crisis and Cure

A Webinar on Research Ethics and Plagiarism: Crisis and Cure' was organized by the College of Vocations Studies with IQAC on 20th August 2020. Prof. (Dr.) Ramesh C Gaur, Dean & Head-Kalanidhi Division, Indira Gandhi National Centre for Arts, Ministry of Culture, GOI addressed the session. Prof. Gaur is one of the key members of the UGC committee which drafted the recently notified UGC Plagiarism Regulations 2018. Research ethics are intrinsically rooted in academic integrity and conscientiousness. With information technology gaining new heights the cases of plagiarism are increasing manifold. Prof. Gaur elaborated on the types of plagiarism, rules, regulations and laws to combat this menace. He focused on the safeguards for students, researchers and faculty against academic theft and stealing.

Prof. Gaur listed the ten most common types of plagiarism like –Clone, CTRL-C, Find-Replace, Remix, Recycle, Mashup, Hybrid, 404 Error, Aggregator and Re-tweet (Source: Webinar PPT of Prof. Guar)

Prof. Guar discussed various methods and practices to check plagiarism. He referred to websites and software like Urkund to check the authenticity of the research and discussed Mendeley and EndNote styles of citation. Most useful suggestions are, research should be published only in UGC listed Journals to score research credits, Google is not equivalent to reading a book, research methodology and citation techniques should be taught at the undergraduate level, never search on Google for research & academic activity, the top priority must be given to the database subscribed by the library and academic search engines such as Google Scholars and Directory of Open Access Journals are the best.

Academic faculty from Delhi, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, A.P., Chhattisgarh, Bengal, M.P., U.P., Rajasthan, Himachal and North East participated in the webinar.

Report Writing Workshop

On the occasion of First Foundation Day (13th September 2019) of the Social Media Champion of College of Vocational Studies) a "Report Writing Workshop" was organised on 19th September 2020 at 11am on Google meet.

Esteemed journalist, analyst, author and Former Deputy Editor of National Daily, The Hindu, Mr. Vijay Lokapally was the guest of honour. It is an honour for the institution and SMCCVSDU that an eminent writer of the stature of Vijay Lokapally has agreed to be the resource person. It was an interactive session with the students.

The SMCCVS Convener, Dr. Richa Malhotra initiated the session. Aditya V. Prajapati, the editor-in-chief, welcomed the illustrious speaker, guests and participants.

Mr. Vijay Lokapally is renowned for his excellent reporting politics, culture and sports matters. A committed journalist credited with acclaimed books including, 'World Cup Warriors : Boys in Blue', 'Driven : The Story of Virat Kohli', 'The Story of Sehwag'.

Objective reporting is pivotal to the credibility and trust of its reader/audience. Lokapally emphasised on simplicity of style, lucidity of expression and comprehensive of presentation as the finest elements of reporting. Lokapally gave utmost importance to transparency and accountability in journalism.

According to him a journalist first and foremost should be responsible and conscientious to his/ her vocation. Reading good books is vital, Lokapally said for being a good journalist.

In the last segment discussion Vijay Lokapally talked about his experience of covering cricket world over. 'Speed Merchants' his new book on fast bowlers of India will hit the book shelves in coming November. Mr. Lokapally mesmerised his audience with his exemplary range of knowledge and powerful articulation.

Suraj Kumar, the Executive Editor, gave the vote of thanks. It was an educative and engaging session enthusiastically participated by students from various colleges and universities of India.

Session on Model United Nations

Modern Youth International in association with College of Vocational Studies organized an informative session about Model United Nations where they enlightened the students about how MUN teaches the art of solving a global issue through research, drafting, lobbying and debate to pass a suitable resolution. MYI is organizing its second edition of MUN in collaboration with CVS.

Ananya Das was the key note speaker who talked about the organs, committees, rules of procedure of MUN accompanied by a power point presentation. She told that MUN develops leadership skills, research, writing, public speaking and problem-solving skills. Mihir who is the secretary general of the MYI - MUN addressed the gathering about how coming up with resolutions that are acceptable to the majority of representatives also inculcates skills of negotiation, conflict resolution and cooperation.

António Guterres graced the session with his words of wisdom about the prowess of diplomacy which inspired everyone to do MUNs. The session ended with vote of thanks by Honorable Geetha ma'am to all the speakers for such an invigorating experience for all the young debaters.

Certificate Course on Digital Teaching Techniques

The college of vocational studies along ICT Academy organized a week online certificate course from 24 Aug 2020 to 29 Aug 2020. The course focused on how the world is changing all around us and we need to adapt to survive. The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in internet gaining a major role in remote working, online learning, shift to online classes, video streaming and other sudden changes. This also gives an opportunity to strengthen internet connectivity across India for better interaction between students and teachers.

This exclusive course prepared the teachers for the new journey, to help faculty members change their teaching style to meet the demands of this new digital world and help them achieve their teaching goals, motivate students to learn from isolation, promote team work in digital space and assess their knowledge with / without exams or assignments.

After the successful completion of the course teachers were now able to build a Learner Directed Digital Learning environment at institution with ease. The teachers were even awarded digital certificates.
